Objetivo

Este curso se propone introducir a los alumnos en los “grandes temas” de la ciencia política: el problema del orden político, el origen del Estado moderno, las causas y consecuencias de las revoluciones sociales, el papel de las instituciones en el desarrollo económico, la naturaleza de los regímenes políticos, o el rol del individuo en los procesos sociales.

A lo largo del curso, responderemos preguntas del tipo: ¿Cómo se formaron los estados modernos? ¿Por qué el descontento social sólo se traduce en protestas y revoluciones bajo ciertas circunstancias específicas (y cuáles son dichas circunstancias)? Si las instituciones son clave para el desarrollo, ¿cómo se explica la supervivencia de instituciones deficientes cuando no directamente nefastas? ¿Qué papel juegan los líderes individuales en los procesos políticos? ¿Bajo qué circunstancias la movilización de identidades étnicas termina en violencia o guerras civiles?

Evaluación

- Participación en clase (10%). Leer la bibliografía obligatoria es esencial para participar en clase. Además, cada sesión 3-4 alumnos serán elegidos al azar para responder preguntas sobre la bibliografía correspondiente a dicha sesión.
- Reflexiones breves (15%). Cada semana, los alumnos presentarán un escrito de no más de una página con (a) un resumen o “abstract”; ó (b) una crítica breve; ó (c) una pregunta fundamentada, sobre de uno de los textos de la bibliografía obligatoria (o algún pasaje del mismo). Los escritos serán entregados por email treinta minutos antes del comienzo de la clase, o en papel al comienzo de la misma; no se admitirán excepciones.
- Reseña (15%). Antes de la última semana de clase, los estudiantes entregarán un ensayo de no más de 4-6 páginas, a doble espacio, reseñando alguno de los pares de novelas/películas listados en el temario, y relacionándolos con alguno(s) de los textos incluidos en la bibliografía.
- Examen parcial (25%). A mitad del semestre habrá un examen parcial cubriendo los temas vistos hasta entonces.

- Ensayo final (35%). La última semana de clases, el profesor entregará una lista de 3-4 preguntas sobre algunos de los temas vistos en clase. Los alumnos deberán elegir una de ellas y responderla con un ensayo de no más de 8 páginas, a doble espacio. El ensayo deberá incluir referencias tanto a la bibliografía obligatoria como a la optativa.

Lecturas

El temario comprende tres tipos de lecturas. En la primera clase de cada semana, leeremos los textos “clásicos” sobre un tema. En la siguiente clase, el foco estará puesto en lecturas más modernas que examinan críticamente dichos clásicos, por lo general contrastando sus afirmaciones con la evidencia empírica. Finalmente, los alumnos elegirán alguno de los siguientes pares de libros de ficción y películas y elaborarán una reseña crítica de los mismos, destacando su conexión (o falta de ella) con algunos de los textos leídos en clase.

Todas las lecturas obligatorias se encuentran disponibles en Comunidad ITAM. Las lecturas marcadas con un asterisco (*) incluyen material técnicamente complejo, con el cual los alumnos pueden no estar familiarizados. Dentro de lo posible, el profesor tratará de explicar la intuición detrás de dicho material en clase, pero el conocimiento del mismo no será evaluado, y los alumnos pueden pasar por alto las secciones correspondientes.
